About the Department of Nursing

Consistent with the mission of the university, the mission of the Department of Nursing at Fayetteville State University is to prepare nursing professionals who are competent, ethical, and scientifically oriented in their practice to meet the health care needs of all people. The Department of Nursing is a place of learning and discovery where the nursing curriculum is designed to foster the development of critical thinking, professionalism, cultural awareness, and the social justice values that are essential to effective nursing practice.
How Do You Get Books?
Checking Out Library Materials from Chesnutt Library

✓ Distance Nursing students may have materials checked out to them from Chesnutt Library without visiting the library. Identify the books you want with their information.
✓ E-books are available through the online catalog and electronically through several databases.
✓ Please contact Jan Whitfield, 910-672-1750, jwhitfield@uncfsu.edu or Andrea Putnam, 910-672-1242, amputnam@uncfsu.edu to request a book be sent to you.
✓ The requested book will be sent by mail. Postage for returning books to Chesnutt Library is the responsibility of the borrower.
✓ Books must be received by Chesnutt Library by the due date to avoid overdue notices. Three overdue notices will result in being billed for the book's replacement costs.
✓ You may also contact the Circulation Department directly at 910-672-1233 for items to be mailed.
How Do You Get Journal Articles?

Use Chesnutt Library’s Online Databases

Distance Nursing students may access online materials (databases and journal articles through the tab on Chesnutt Library’s Home Page and through the Nursing LibGuide.

- There are databases you can access on many different subjects.
- There are several Nursing Specific Databases for Articles:
  - CINAHL Plus with Full-Text (Cumulative Index to Nursing and Allied Health Literature)
  - Health Source Nursing/Academic Edition
  - Nursing Reference Center
  - Medline Complete

- Please contact Jan Whitfield, 910-672-1750 or email her at jwhitfield@uncfsu.edu for assistance in searching the databases and locating journal articles.

Welcome to the Charles W. Chesnutt Library subject guide for How to Cite - Citing Your Sources!

There are academic reasons why you must cite the sources that you use in your research paper:

Why?

- Avoid plagiarism and maintain academic honesty.
- It lets your readers know the original source of the information you use, thereby lending authority to your work.
- Citations identify the sources used in your bibliography or works cited page, and allow readers to retrieve these sources.

APA in-text citations

APA’s in-text citations provide at least the author’s last name and the year of publication. For direct quotations and some paraphrases, a page number is given as well.

NOTE: APA style requires the use of the past tense or the present perfect tense in signal phrases introducing cited material: Smith (2005) reported; Smith (2005) has argued.

- 1. Basic format for a quotation Ordinarily, introduce the quotation with a signal phrase that includes the author’s last name followed by the year of publication in parentheses. Put the page number preceded by "p." (or "pp." for more than one page) in parentheses after the quotation.

  Critser (2003) noted that despite growing numbers of overweight Americans, many health care providers still "remain either in ignorance or outright denial about the health danger to the poor and the young" (p. 5).

If the author is not named in the signal phrase, place the author’s name, the year, and the page number in parentheses after the quotation: (Critser, 2003, p. 5).

NOTE: APA style requires the year of publication in an in-text citation. Do not include a month, even if the entry in the reference list includes the month.

Author Note
This paper was prepared for Psychology 108, Section B, taught by Professor Kang.

Marginal annotations indicate APA-style formatting and effective writing.

This paper follows the style guidelines in the Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association, 6th ed. (2010).

Citations indicate the exact location for sources of information used in the text of the paper; the references (or list of works cited) describes, as a whole, the works from which the citations are taken. PLEASE NOTE: The examples on the following pages are based on the style recommended in the American Psychological Association Publication Manual (6th ed. 2010).

SAVE TIME: Use RefWorks to easily keep track of your references and quickly format them correctly for your bibliography. RefWorks is a personal bibliographic citation managing system that Dalhousie subscribes to. For more information, go to http://www.library.dal.ca/RefWorks/.

IMPORTANT: Dalhousie University defines plagiarism as "the presentation of the work of another author in such a way as to give one's reader reason to think it to be one's own. Plagiarism is a form of academic fraud." Find out what plagiarism is and how to avoid it at http://plagiarism.dal.ca.

REFERENCES

Remember: APA requires double-spacing between ALL text lines – that includes references. Please note that, in an attempt to save space, this document has been formatted in single spacing.

Abstract:
Maternity Nursing Care, second edition, delivers all the core components of maternity nursing, along with in-depth study features to help you develop and enhance your analytical skills. Starting with women's health issues and pregnancy care, the chapters progress through labor and childbirth, postpartum care, and newborn development, addressing the nursing considerations for both normal and high-risk scenarios where appropriate. Written from a nursing perspective, Maternity Nursing Care, second edition, emphasizes overall patient care as opposed to medical treatment alone, and it illustrates the critical importance of fostering the nurse-patient relationship. Features: all chapters contain the most recent standards, guidelines, and evidence for nursing practice, along with ethical and legal considerations to consider during patient care, enabling you to keep pace with changes in the health care field; every chapter contains Reflections and Critical Thinking sections with detailed case scenarios involving different care settings and various nursing roles, offering multiple opportunities to hone collaboration, decision making, and analytical skills; cultural negotiation boxes highlight the importance of understanding the influence of culture on a patient's health beliefs and practices by walking through various scenarios and possible resolutions; seeking evidence-based practice features encourage a knowledge-based practice by offering insight into new research, approaches, and technology; in-text nursing process sections give you the foundation for sound clinical care, and case study/care plans encourage the critical thinking skills necessary to apply these theories to real-life practice; full-color photo stories depict procedures and nursing care, emphasizing clinical excellence and the nurse-patient relationship, to help you imagine yourself in maternity nursing roles.

Multi-Sector Working and Self-Management, Community Health Care

Jenni Burton
Faculty of Society and Health, Buckinghamshire New University, High Wycombe, UK

Introduction

This chapter explores contemporary community health care in the United Kingdom, with a particular emphasis on the growing importance of multi-agency partnership working and the impact that collaborative initiatives are starting to have on the individual, the local community and the broader shape of community health care delivery. With strong roots emerging from Canada and North America, multi-sector working can be defined as the coordination of valuable resources to maximise scope for improving the health, safety and well-being of citizens. Tamarack’s Communities Collaborating Institute (CCI) refers to multi-sector working as

Together we create increased credibility, capacity and capital for the world.

Community collaboration is an evolving feature of global, national and local government-driven initiatives and provides an impetus for innovative ways to solve
